Happiness Is . . .

Many moods were evident amont the students, but perhaps the most obvious was that of happiness. The elated expressions on the different faces were due to a variety of things. Such things as making a top grade on a test, enjoying activities with friends, and being asked out by a very special person were just a few of the things over which students expressed joy.

MIKE FITZGERALD, Carl Fife, and Denise Braud appear quite content in conversation.

Getting Away From It All

Some students felt the need for moments of solitude in order to get away from the many hectic activities and pressures involved with school. These moments were often very precious to those who simply chose to walk alone between classes, rest by themselves during lunch shift, or spend a few more minutes in final preparation for a test. This form os isolation was also the best anecdote for those who just wanted to "get away from it all" for a short period of time.

ANN DUMAS isolates herself from others as she spends a few moments in final preparation for a test.

Anxiety Reaches All

Feelings of anxiety, although mostly hidden, were evident at certain crucial times. For example, students revealed anxiety mostly around exam time or before a big test. There were times before games when the players were nervous, and the coaches were jumpy. Students experienced anxiety before school as they dreaded entering, knowing they would have to face six long hours. But, as the sixth hour on those Fridays of every week came along, everyone could sense the feeling of anxiety as the students and teachers waited for that time when they could enjoy themselves for the weekend.

Adjusting To New Routines

"At Belaire High School, you have a lot more responsibility because you have to depend more on yourself and not as much on others," Jeri Spinosa replied when asked what was the most confusing thing about entering Belaire as a freshman.

Meeting old and new frields, going from a smaller school to a larger one, and not knowing what to expect was really confusing. Many also had trouble learning their schedules and adjusting to different lunch shifts. Finding the classrooms was also confusing as well as finding supplies and transportation. Despite the many new adjustments and problems, all eventually become familiar with the everyday routine.

JASON JORDAN shows his confusion as he sees the excitement in the classroom.

JOE SIMON looks a bit dazed as he walks down the hall

Excitement Is Obvious

The first day of school there was much excitement. The freshmen were lost, and all of the returning students were excited to be back at school with their friends. The seniors probably were the most excited of them all. The year was to be their last one in high school, and they were anxious to get it over with and make tracks to Florida.

WENDY BORDELON and Connie Coon share an exciting moment between classes.

SANDY BARNETT and Patricia Sastoque enjoy helping with Toys for Tots drive.

STUDENT LIFE

Ali,

Well, since I've known you, you have put a smile on my face just by the way you laugh. I'm very happy that we have become the good friends that we are. I'll always remember you & we'll definately keep in touch. And if you're still working at Winn Dixie I'll drop in and see you! I think you're special to me because you're such a good friend + I would never want our friendship to change. (I'd like it to get better, not worse.) I hope that your life goes the way you plan it and you're happy. And if there ever comes a time when you need a TALK, call me. OK? And I'll do the dance. (Remember that movie about that white man who had a black dog?) Well, I hope after this year there will be alot more memories to add to those we already have, & you'll always be my BUDDIE + buddies are pretty much equal to best friends. So - have fun this year.

Homecoming: History-Making Event

The 1983-84 homecoming was a history-making event. The football team finally beat Covington by a score of 32 to 6, after many years of trying to defeat their archrivals.

The student body selected eleven girls for the court, and Sany Barnett was crowned Queen of Dwali.

Impressions and Expressions

Being elected as Belaire's homecoming queen was a great honor and a big surprise. I was so excited when I heard that I made it, I just could not believe it. Being on the court plus being elected queen was a lot of fun. and it was probably the most exciting thing that has ever happened to me. Representing Belaire as homecoming queen meant a lot to me, and I know that homecoming at Belaire will live on. (Sandy Barnett)

Keeping Up With the Style

Walking down the halls, one could see a wide variety of fashions. Common sights were the casual everyday look of slacks and blouses, the preppy look with striped pants and shirts, izod shirts, knee socks, top siders, and leg warmers. Perhaps the style that stood out the most was the new punk look which consisted of punk hair cuts, untucked shirts, and bandanas. Though many of these so-called fashions may have been just fads that come and go, the ever popular jeans and T-shirts it seeemd were here to stay.

Court Of Dwali

When homecoming week arrived, the students elected girls to the court. Eleven girls were chosen, two from each of the underclasses and five from the senior class.

Sandy Barnett reigned as Rani of Dwali (homecoming queen), and the remaining ten girls made up the court.

As in previous years the court watched the game from the sidelines. But there was a difference. The girls watched history being made as the team scored a convincing victory over Covington.

Keeping And Making Friends

Most teenagers had to ask their parents for permission to date. In fact, some teenagers thought that introducing their dates to their parents was the polite thing to do.

Dating was a very important step in most students' lives. It meant that they were growing up physically and emotionally as they dated for fun, emotional satisfaction, and social outlets.

Through dating, students learned the responsibility of keeping a curfew and gained experience in knowing the kind of person with whom they were spending their tiee.

Bengals Get The Beat

Many students enjoyed listening to their favorite groups and popular singers. Michael Jackson was one of the most popular singers among the high school population

There were different types of music everyone listened to such as rock and roll, soul, jazz, country, and blues.

Music took the students' minds off their problems, It helped them to concentrate and relax. But most of the time it helped them to feel at ease.

Bengals After Hours

"What do you do when you go home after school?"

The responses of students varied. Most said, "Sleep, talk on the phone to friends from other schools, and work."

After school was the only time students had to themselves besides the weekends and holidays. The weekends were made for partying.

Making Ends Meet

Filling the gas tank, visiting the favorite arcade, going out on a date, attending sports events, and keeping up with the latest fashions were considered weekly essentials.

With rising inflation, the cost of going to the movies and eating at McDonald's had increased at least $3.00 since 1978. Since students refused to stay home, they sometimes considered jobs to be necessary.

The minimum wage was $3.35. Popular choices for employment included McDonalds, Albertsons, child care centers, and department stores.

SANDY MONCEAUX waits for five o'clock so she can get to work.

SINCE THE BANNING of radios from school, Mrs. White's classroom is as close as students can get to a Walkman radio.

Electronic Age Strikes

The elctronic age had hit, and it certainly struck Belaire students hard. One of the biggest hits was the addition to the computer science room of ten new terminals. This addition allowed the students to prepare better for the outside world of computers.

Video games were as popular as ever and were played in every place imaginable. Such inventions as table top models and video game watches made games more accessible. Other popular electronic devices were Walkman radios and car stereo systems.

Senior David DeCuir is often seen lettering the marquee that was given to us by the seniors on 1982.

SIGNS EXPRESS FEELINGS

During the year, students express themselves through artistic signs. There was not a day that went by that a person could not have found new information colorfully displayed on a piece of poster board. The cheerleaders also put up banners promoting spirit at the peprallies and games.

One way to excite the juniors was by putting up a sign announcing the beginning of sales for class rings. This type of sign really captured the attention of the student body.

Hanging Around the Town

Students had several special hangouts, places where they went to be alone or with friends. A hangout could be a noisy or quiet place. Noisy places included such locations as malls, gamerooms, and McDonald's. When the students wanted to be alone or go to a quiet place, they went to the library. Where did you hang out?

TROY JERRIE and Jay Stutzman enjoy an afternoon meal at McDonald's.

LOIS DICKERSON clowns around at Mardi Gras.

Seniors Hold Home Meetings

Seniors were active not only at school but also in home meetings. When attending these gatherings, they discussed graduation, the prom, senior dues, and much more. They began the meetings with the pledge to the flag, prayer, and roll call. Seniors had a lot of fun having class meetings at home.

Rowdy Bengals Boost Team Spirit

During the football season, the spirited pep rallies helped to break the monotonous, routine schedule of the students. With the help of the cheerleaders, flags, rifles, dancers, brigade, band, and the many students that participated, the pep rallies attempted to mentally prepare the team for the game that night. David DeCuir, the student body president, did an excellent job in conducting each pep rally. There were also many other invited guests to lead the pep rallies such as the "Ice Man" from WLCS Radio and Dave Gammon and John Conley, who introduced the hacky sac, the newest fad to Baton Rouge.

Spirit To The End

For the many athletic events, the Bengal teams always seemed to draw a great crowd. This attraction might have been due to the mutual feeling of unity shared by the Bengal family. Whether it was basketball, football, baseball, or track, there was always much pride invested in the Bengal teams. Once at the game, the fans were loyal and suportive until the end, no matter what the outcome. Even hazardous weather conditions such as the rainy Hammond football game at Southeastern University did not keep the Bengal fans from showing their support and enthusiasm.

Impressions and Expressions

As a teacher at Belaire High School, I feel that extracurricular activities are an integral part of the school program. They help to balance the communication process among administrators, faculty, and the entire student body. Thus, these functions enable the students to get a well-rounded education by enhancing their academic and social progress.

Here at Belaire, we have had numerous activities in which everyone became involved. Among them were the donkey basketball game, the student-faculty basketball game, and the student-faculty volleyball game.

The donkey game was exciting as faculty and students tested their skills at putting the ball into the goal while astride a donkey. In the end the teachers outwitted the students and won.

The annual student-faculty basketball game again brought together the entire student body and the faculty members. The faculty also defeated the students in the game.

Yet another thrilling and exciting event was the student-faculty volleyball game. The faculty slammed the students into the net and won with scores of 15-2 and 15-13!

So without these "extra" activities, there would be a lot of "unknowns" at Belaire because the extracurricular events break the barrier between the "knowns" and the "unknowns." They also break the monotony of a totally academic curriculum. (Mr. Jackson)

1984 Sweethearts

Belaire High, along with the Bengal Band and Mr. Frazier, worked very hard to prepare for the 1984 Spring Sweetheart Pageant.

Girls from clubs and homerooms entered the contest. As the time drew nearer, nervous girls chattered away. Finally the big day arrived. While eager parents and friends waited to see their favorites, the contestants were backstage making last minute preparations.

It was a tough decision for the judges, but they made up their minds. Senior queen was Tracye Walls, and runners-up were Joy DeCuir, Lori Martin, Lorie Baldwin, and Laura Murphy. Even though it was a hard decision and only a few could place, every girl was a winner.

Strut Your Stuff

Beauties come and go but Bengal Beauties live forever. This was the general consensus of the audience as beauties paraded for the pleasure of their spectators. Stunning "ladies" from every facet of life charmed their way into the hearts of onlookers and tried to convince the judges in any way possible that they deserved to win. Guys dressed up in clothes that fit their personality and struted their stuff to the delight of students and teachers alike. Charles Brown impressed the judges and won the contest.

Talent Scouts Beware

An unusual number of acts were presented in the annual talent show sponsored by the Beta Club. Among the many acts, a wide variety of talent was displayed. However, most of the participants performed what they did best.

The master of ceremonies for the event was Jim Nasium from WFMF. He introduced the acts; and when all was said and done, he announced the winners, Angela Beatty and Paul Raiford.

Dance The Night Away

One of the most popular sockhops of the year was the favorites' sockhop. The Beta Club held the dance to honor the class favorites and senior superlatives. The activity room was decorated in a valentine setting as red hearts adorned the walls. Students who were presented at the dance received large red hearts with their names emblazed in red glitter. A great many students attended the special dance as compared to the number that attended a regular sockhop. Perhaps the suspense of wondering which student had won what category drew people to the dance. In any case, everyone enjoyed the music and the fellowship with friends. It might be said that the favorites' dance was a favorite dance for many persons.

A Normal School Day

A normal school day began with a 7:40 a.m. bell when teachers and students began moving toward first hour class. Another bell at 7:45 signaled five minutes before everyone must be in classrooms or be tardy. Homeroom lasted until 8:00, and the instruction time for first hour extended from 8:00 to 8:50. Students had five minutes to get to second hour, which ended at 9:45. When third hour concluded at 11:40, the west side went to lunch for thirty minutes while the east side attended fourth hour class. From 11:10 to 11:40 everyone was in class. At 11:40 the east side went to lunch. The bell at 12:10 p.m. sent students and teachers to fifth hour, and finally at 1:05, the bell rang for sixth hour, which lasted until 2:00. Teachers stayed for another hour to make class preparations.

Time Out

From Labor Day through Thanksgiving and Christmas and up to the Easter break, the entire family at Belaire eagerly awaited their much-deserved vacations. Even the holidays that did not provide the students and teachers with a day off did help by giving a bit of variety to an otherwise never changing routine. Some students visited family and friends while others used the extra time to catch up on lost sleep. No matter how the holidays were spent, the Belaire community enjoyed the free time tremendously.

Weekend Pass

When the bell rang on Friday at two o'clock, the students of Belaire started to enjoy their 65 hours of liberty. For the next two days the students engaged in a wide variety of activities, from lying around in the sun by day to going out to dinner by night. Even the students that held part-time jobs found time to relax with classmates. In the search for new experiences, Brad Shirley and Derek Cobb participated in the Louisiana High School Rodeo Association. Other students chose less hazardous activities of dancing and movie going.

End and Beginning

Graduation on May 22, 1984, at the LSU Assembly Center, represented both an end and a beginning. Having completed high school requirements, the graduates faced prospects of pursuing higher education or entering the job market.

Graduation was a time that each one would remember. Among those representing the class, Keith Parish and David Cox gave addresses as valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively. Angela Beatty sang the class song, "Against All Odds." As a senior class gift to the school, the graduates presented a lectern for the theater. The (Con't. next page)

There was happiness tinged with a bit of sadness. In the words of Mr. Wingate, the graduates would "never be together in the same way again."

Prom Excitement

The junior class used the glamour and excitement of "Cinderella" as the theme of the Junior-Senior Prom. Class officers decorated the American Legion Hall with Cinderella disigns. Stone Jam provided the dancing music.

Juniors and seniors arrived in tuxedos and long gowns. The guys, however, were not the only ones in tuxedos; a few of the girls decided that renting a tux was easier than buying a dress and that a tux would be equally attrative.

All of these factors added to the uniqueness of the '84 prom. It was an event that juniors and seniors can remember all their lives.

Good Start

The 1983 varsity football team had a very surprising season. The Bengals started off the season with a bang by defeating Tara, Catholic, Redemptorist, and Glen Oaks in consecutive games. The team went into the game against Denham Springs both undefeated and virtually unscored on. Bupoth teams were 4 - 0 going into the game and were tied for the top position in the district. However, at the end of this game the Bengals had seen their first loss of the season. The next game for the Bengals was a very special game. For this, they traveled to Florida to meet the Woodham Titans, one of the top prep powerhouses in the country. Up to the game against Belaire, the Titans had been undefeated and also unscored on. The Bengals went into this game with fire in their eyes and full of pride for their eleventh ranked team. The Bengals lost the game 59 - 13 but were still welcomed home by a warm and proud student body. The team's next game would put them (cont. on p. 42)

Impressions and Expressions

I have been playing football since I was six years old. The highlight of my life was entering Belaire High School and playing football for the 1983-84 freshman season. There were a lot of long hours put into exercise and drills, but in the end it was worth every minute. The freshman team did not lose any of their games. There were only twelve points scored on us during the entire season. I owe a big heartfelt thanks to the coaches and all of my teammates for making this a year that will always be remembered with a big smile. (Gary Hymel)

The varsity track team ended their season placing fourth in the district. Kevin Williams, Reggie Hopkins, Michael Lolis, and Trent Williams proved to be great assets to the team, as each one placed in one of the top three positions in the district meet. Michael Lolis and Trent Williams went on to run in the regional track meet; Trent Willimas placed first in the mile run and two mile run, and Michael Lolis finished third in the 440 yard dash. Trent Williams also placed second in the mile run in the state meet.

The track team placed second in district, and most believe that the age of the girls caused the team to take second place."

Despite their youth, several girls qualified for the regionals. Overall, the entire team felt that the season was a successful one. Sonya Harden was a great asset to the team, as she was voted most valuable track girl.

Varsity Places First In District

The baseball team closed out another highly successful season by reaching the Quad-A State Tournament for the second consecutive year.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Dennis Lorio, the Bengals copped the 7-AAAA district championship with an impressive 11-1 record. They then went on to clinch the regional title to advance to the state tournament at LSU and finished the season with a school record, 29 wins against only 7 losses.

The team also took its share of tournament titles, winning three out of the four they entered. The year was highlighted by a four-game road stint in Pensacola, Florida.

Once again Belaire was well represented on the 7-AAAA all-district baseball team. Members of the first team were catcher Vic Merritt, first baseman Pete Bush, outfielder Kirk Arceneaux, outfielder Shane Rube, and pitcher-utility player Shaan Rube. Members of the second team all-district included shortstop Glen Clark, third baseman Steve Waguespack, and pitcher Shane Rube.

The team continued the school's winning baseball tradition as it completed the fifth consecutive year of 20 or more wins in a single season.

Lady Bengals Steal First Place

The girls' softball team, coached by Mrs. C. Lacey, ended their season with an 11 and 1 record. Due to the outstanding pitching of Jane Bellue, the forceful hitting of Jeanne Divittorio and Jane Bellue, along with the skills of the other players, the Bengals defeated the Baker Buffaloes to place first in 7AAAA. After placing first in the district, the Lady Bengals traveled to Sulphur to become first in state.

On the part of the girls, the softball season consisted of long practices and scrimmages. The time and effort that was put forth by each girl on the team illustrated their determination to be the best. As quoted by Patricia Sastoque, "There seemed to be a special relationship that existed between the team members. The pride and love that was shared between the girls helped the team to be number one."

Impressions and Expressions

Students have become very grade conscious in the last two years as a result of school and parental expectations coupled with the demand of a technological society. The long term effect of standardized testing has also had impact on students' lives.

Students, today, are achieving at a rate which is comparable to the demand placed on them by society, home, and school. They are becoming much more cognizant of immediate and long-range goals. Conscientious efforts are being made by students to plot their lives on a continuum. (Mrs. Williams)

Impressions and Expressions

People who are disciplined seldom understand the need for it, or why they are even implicated. That lack of understanding and inevitable disagreement with the associated punishment indicate, in most cases, why those individuals have discipline problems.

The difficulty of handling disciplinary matters varies from era to era, from teacher to teacher, and even from day to day. Current public demands are for tougher discipline and higher academic standards. These trends should affect the current handling of discipline immediately, but the exact effect is not readily predictable. (Mr. Vaughn)

Impressions and Expressions

Being a sixteen-year veteran, I can honestly say that students of today and the students of ten years ago are altogether different.

Students today have no interest in school work, especially quality work. If you challenge them at all, for the most part they tend to rebel and do nothing. Ten years ago students found school challenging and had a genuine thirst for knowledge. On the other hand, students today view school with total indifference.

However, all is not lost; there are still some students that tend "to make a teacher's day." (Mrs. Cannon)

Belaire Veterans

Belaire's faculty consisted of ninety members. Of the ninety members, thirty-seven had been at the school since it opened ten years before. These thirty-seven faculty members, along with the rest of the staff, provided a friendly and workable environment throughout the school. This type of environment enabled students and faculty members to work and learn together. This togetherness was the essential element which allowed students and faculty to feel that they were part of one big happy family.

Impressions and Expressions

It is with mixed emotions that I consider my retirement from the school system this year. From the beginning of Belaire's existence ten years ago, it has been my privilege to work with an outstanding group of educators and a series of fine young men and women. My life has been permanently enhanced by the contacts and experiences that I have had in my classroom throughout the years. The memories of those times will be with me always, as will be my hopes for all of you as you move into the future. Best of luck to each of you — and if you find my dog, send it home: (Mr. Calcote)

Impressions and Expressions

Having taught for eighteen years, I can say that I find there are a number of students today who are not willing to cooperate with teachers and will not do certain tasks asked of them. Some students are very quick to feel you are picking on them when asked to do something and will rebel. However, I feel that there are those students who are sweet and kind and will cooperate with you whenever a task is asked of them. (Mrs. T. Tate)

CLUBS

Lancer Band

The marching band performed during halftime at every game they attended (Woodham was too far; Hammond, too wet). This was the year that the band, after nine years, received new uniforms. This added to the already strong feeling of pride and spirit. For the first time in many years, the Bengal Band competed at the Denham Springs Marching Band Festival and received ratings of Excellent which was good for second place in the parish. Ike Peak was one of two students chosen to represent Louisiana in the McDonald's All-American Band; he performed in the Macy's Thanksgiving Parade in New York and the Rose Bowl Parade in Los Angeles. Shelly Baker and Charles Dalcourt were selected for the Louisiana All-State Band, and eight of our musicians were named to the East Baton Rouge All-Parish Band. The Bengal Lancer Band was asked to play for McDonald Corporation's Olympic Flag Ceremony and performed as usual in the Baton Rouge Mardi Gras parade and the Great River Road Run. Whenever the Band performed, they were called to attention and you could hear how they felt "with pride".

Bengalettes, Flags, And Brigade

All three groups practiced very hard to participate in pep rallies, basketball games, and football games. The Bengalettes danced at half-time, while the Flag Corp twirled their flags. The Brigade showed their spirit by cheering all through the games. Each of these groups had their own role to play in the school activities, but they all worked together and helped each other to promote school spirit.

The Bengalettes, Flag Corp, and Brigade provided much spirit, leadership, and service to Belaire throughout the year.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleading squad, which was headed by and directed by Mrs. Lacey, was an enthusiastic group that promoted much school spirit. As well as filling the pep meetings with pride and spirit, the cheerleaders were also held responsible for making spirit signs and decorating the players' locker room each week. During the basketball season, the cheerleaders showed their pride in supporting the varsity basketball team. The cheerleaders put forth hard work and practice each day in order to be ready to lead the Bengal team on to a victory.

During the summer before the shool year of 1983, the cheerleaders attended a four-day camp at Nichols University. While at camp, the cheerleaders received honors for such things as putting forth 110% and also building pyramids. On the last day of the workshop, the cheerleaders placed as finalists in the Grand Champion Competition.

N.H.S.

National Honor Society, a nationwide organization sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, is a very selective group, which performs a number of helpful activities both at school and in the community. N.H.S. regularly sponsors the annual straight "A" awards and the reception at Honors Night; works on various service projects related to hospitals, senior citizen homes, and children's services; and tutors students having difficulty in any subject. Society members taped chapters and stories for foreign students and slow readers. Social events for 1983-84 ranged from sponsorship of the Christmas dance and the Sadie Hawkins' dance to membership pizza and bowling parties. N.H.S. is proud of its high academic requirement of a 3.5 average and is eager to recruit more members into its ranks.

The Beta Club was very active. This service organization participated in many projects throughout the year such as visiting the Mohican school on Halloween and during Easter, making cupcakes for the teachers at Thanksgiving and on Valentine's Day, sponsoring the annual favorites' dance, and participating in Teacher Appreciation Week. The group put much work and effort into the sponsoring of Tory Hotstream, a young boy afflicted with cerebral palsy. Senior members were responsible for providing refreshments for the first baccalaureate service ever held for the senior class. The club ended their year with a country banquet in the school cafeteria. Members who went on the New York trip agreed that the trip was the highlight of their year.

Impressions and Expressions

To me, Mu Alpha Theta is the most interesting club at Belaire. Being a member is an honor as well as a privilege. We meet about once a week to practice logical reasoning and other mathematical skills. We also play equation games and work problems. Soon we will have a chess team. I enjoy encountering all of the interesting people and learning the different arithmetic techniques possessed by each of them. I also love the fact that I will be able to pass the skills that I have learned to the newer members of the club, just as many members passed their skills on to me. (Johnny Adams)

During the course of the year, the students participated in a wine and cheese tasting party, Christmas caroling in local neighborhoods, and an end-of-the-year French picnic. The members explored France, Italy, and Switzerland.

Members of the club also performed on a number of occasions in a Reader's Theater production for the Louisiana Library Association convention, at a speech recital with works from Shakespeare, Tennessee Williams, and others, and they competed in Southeastern Louisiana University speech tournament, in which they reached the finals. Distributive Education is a nation wide program whose purpose is to prepare students for the world of work. The student is given the opportunity to attend school half of the day and work half the day.

The students used their distribution skills by selling candy, candles, and stuffed animals. With the money made from these activities, the students attended an annual end of the year crawfish boil. Michelle Matthews, Missi Broussard, and Pam Williams attended the D.E. State Convention in Lake Charles. ## Impressions and Expressions

FHA means a lot to me, and a lot of hard work and dedication. Being in FHA has taught me to take on responsibilities. As vice-president, I participated in all of FHA's activities such as Daddy Date Night, district meeting, and the annual fashion show. To me, FHA is an active and enjoyable organization.

Even though I'm a senior, I will continue to participate in FHA. Continuing my education at LSU, I plan to major in Foods and Nutrition and become a member of the LSU FHA. (Deadra Perkins)

Developing a growing appreciation of membership in a democracy is the purpose of the Student Government Association. Students learned this democratic appreciation through shared experiences at school, which led to the further development of their maturity, ability, and sense of responsibility.

The group succeeded in promoting American ideals by providing an opportunity for student participation, expression, and service. Highlights of the year were the holding of school-wide campaigns and elections, providing Thanksgiving baskets for families in need, collecting "Toys for Tots" at Christmas, and sponsoring the homecoming elections and dance.

Senioritis Cripples 95% Of Seniors

When asked to define senioritis, Mrs. Alford, a senior class sponsor, replied, "Senioritis is a regrettable, but inevitable disease that attacks only twelfth graders with such symptoms as memory loss in regard to previous studies, and fuzzy haziness, thickened greatly by thoughts of sand and salt water, in reference to future accomplishments. Onslaught is gradual in some, sudden in others; but the contagious nature of the disease ensures that over 95 percent of the senior class will sooner or later contact the ailment. Total recovery is possible through a proven treatment: graduation exercises and beach recuperation."

Senior Officers Lead

Senior class officers enjoyed the experience of working with the faculty and students. This experience offered a chance for these officers to create new ideas and activities for the seniors to enjoy. Throughout the year, they did their best to provide a feeling of love and fellowship among their peers. Their leadership ability was evident through the hard work put forth in the organization of new activities such as senior week held in January and baccalaureate held in early May.

Also, the officers put forth much effort into the creation of new categories for senior superlatives. These categories were to be installed in the senior section of the yearbook that, for the first time, was printed entirely in color. Towards the end of the year, with the help of senior sponsors and several parents, the officers planned and organized the traditional senior prom, working with a Mardi Gras theme. As a final step, the officers' helped organize the commencement exercises held at the LSU Assembly Center on May 22, 1984.

Impressions and Expressions

When I came to Belaire in the ninth grade, I was as nervous and scared as a cat being chased by a dog. As the weeks went by and the months came up, I started getting acquainted with the school. As I sat in the ninth grade section of the gym at a pep rally, I glanced at the senior section, and it seemed as if it would take as long as it takes a man to run around the world for me to finally reach the senior section.

Now that I am a senior, it seems that time went just as fast as a second hand on a clock goes when time is ticking along. It seems that just yesterday I was in the tenth grade. Attending high school has been like a quick vacation. Like vacations, high school has ended too soon. (Alicia Thompson)

Cherished Memories

One of the most cherished memories of several seniors was the Beta Club trip taken during Thanksgiving. Plans for this trip began as early as the spring of 1983 and lasted through the day of departure in November. These students were very enthusiastic as they journeyed through Gatlinburg, Williamsburg, Jamestown, Washington, D.C., and the highlight of the trip, New York City. While on the trip, these students enjoyed such things as shopping, viewing many historical and educational sites, and attending many cultural gatherings such as the theater before making their long trip home. The seniors who made this trip would always remember this once-in-a-lifetime experience.

Seniors Spice Up Life

Towards the end of the year, seniors anticiated their much-dreamed-about trip to Florida. They had difficulty in concentrating on school work and exams, but the thought of fun in the sun made the work much easier.

As the excited seniors journeyed to Florida, the one thought in their minds was that of having their last bit of senior fun. Those who went to Florida had a chance to end their high school years with sun and fun!

Juniors Look Ahead

Being a junior was a very different feeling. Growing older and accepting more responsibility were accented in that particular period. After school jobs were starting to take up more free time, and money normally spent on clothes and junk food was being put away for college. Also, emphasis on academic among juniors bound for college increased because the future seemed closer and a lot more revelant.

However, the junior year was not one totally without social life and fun. In response to the question, "What do you like about being a junior?" Bryan Reed replied joyously, "Only one more year!" Still others commented that the Junior-Senior prom was the most exciting thing that being a junior had to offer.

Through all its important thoughts and free time activities, the class of '85 anticipated being together for another year before setting out to meet the goals they had set for themselves.

Impressions and Expressions

This past year, the junior class has become well known, not by ridicule, but by maturity. The junior year is the most memorable for all students coming or going. The junior class of 83-84 has grown to accept the responsibilities that will reach us in later years. We have grown into a large family and will remain tha way until the day we must part.

Speaking as a junior, alone, I have enjoyed the year to its fullest. With the help of teachers and other students, we have pulled through another year successfully. (Stephanie Harris)

Junior Officers

Dawn Rube, Mike Forrester, Faleisha Wood, Debbie Dejean, and Danelle Wingate, represented the juniors as both leaders and organizers. They worked at getting the junior class united with school spirit as a basis. During the football season, pep rallies provided competition between classes which these officers and other members of the junior class usually dominated with ample determination.

Many other projects, such as junior-senior prom, were all competently completed with the help and leadership of the junior class officers.

Impressions and Expressions

Being a sophomore is awesome! My sophomore year I threw shot put and won state in J.V. wrestling.

Because of busing I had to go to Belaire instead of going to Woodlawn where most of my friends were going. Now that I've gotten involved and made so many new friends, I would not leave for anything.

So a little advice to the underclassmen — get involved and the best of it. The payoff comes in the end. (Greg Summer-Bengal =71! Senior '86)

Enthusiastic Newcomers

Usually, a freshman's first day in high school is very difficulty, but it can be very rewarding. The freshmen of 1983-84 were nervous and scared on their first day. There were many courses and activities for them to participate in, and it took them a while to adapt to their new routines.

In spite of initial difficulties, freshmen found rewarding experiences. There was the usual tradition of meeting old freinds and making new one. Lunch break was a lifesaver from classwork. For most freshmen, the year was a successful and rewarding experience.

Impressions and Expressions

My ninth grade year here at Belaire has been all right. I was afraid at first, but then I got used to it.

Being in ninth grade isn't fun, including the picking part about being a ninth grader, baby freshman. But, I can take it. I'll probably do the same thing next year to the freshmen then.

I met a lot of friends, and I also saw the friends from last year that I thought I'd never really see again.

I can really say that I like Belaire, and I enjoyed the new experiences with the teachers and other students. I really enjoyed it. (Alma Harris)

Impressions and Expressions

My freshman year at Belaire High was very good, but mostly it was very strange.

I had a lot of trouble finding classes at first. All my friends told me how much trouble it would be finding them.

What mostly made me nervous was that I was coming into high school as a member of the youngest class. After I bacame acquainted with a lot of people, it was like I knew everyone.

I think my freshman year was very, very good. (Ronald Jenkins)

IN MEMORY OF VERNON THOMAS

Many times in life we encounter situations that are hard to accept and even harder to understand.

On Feburary 15, 1984, Vernon Thomas, son of Betty Weston Thomas and Kempt Thomas III, was killed.

His death shocked all of us at Belaire High school. He was fourteen years of age and a member of the drill team in the JROTC program.

In flesh Vernon is lost to us, but in our memories he will live on forever.

Responsibilities Gained

Toward the end of the school year, students seemed to realize all that they had learned. The knowledge that the students gained was not limited to academics. They learned about themselves, as well as others, by working and growing together in a comfortable, family atmosphere. What they learned during the year better prepared them for their future lives.

The End Draws Near

Among the many moods and feelings that were expressed by the students body, anxiety and excitement were the two which were most evident. Toward the end of the school year, the students, as well as the teachers, anxiously awaited the approaching summer vacation. The final exams caused many students to encounter feelings of anxiety, as they struggled either to maintain or to achieve a passing academic average.

The last day of school brought excitement to each student and teacher, as a year that was filled with anxiety and excitement came to a close.

Ali,

Hey Sweetie!, Well we're finally made. I hard to believe. Remember way back at Sherwood when we were wishing to start high school! You will never know how glad I am that we became good friends after all these years. Remember that wild crush I had on you for 2 ½ years. I could have killed you for treating me the way you did. (Ha, Ha!) Just kiddin' Well we can't look back. Just think of all the funny wild things we have done these past 3 years, and look forward to the next, especially Florida! I just want to say I cherish our friendship dearly and will always remember you. Good luck in the future, I know you will achieve all the success in the world. Keep in Touch After we graduate. Love always Victoria Wolf
